1. Important Notice

This Risk Disclosure is provided to help you understand the risks associated with using Vestrix Finance and investing in cryptocurrency-related products. Please read it carefully before using our services.

Cryptocurrency investments are speculative and involve a high degree of risk. You should not invest funds you cannot afford to lose. The value of digital assets can be extremely volatile.

2. Market Risk

The prices of cryptocurrencies can fluctuate significantly over short periods. Market conditions, regulatory developments, technological changes, and macroeconomic factors can all affect asset prices.

There is no guarantee that any investment strategy, including copy-trading or managed plans, will produce profits. You may lose all or a substantial portion of your invested capital.

3. Liquidity and Withdrawal Risk

Depending on market conditions and compliance requirements, withdrawals may be delayed or restricted. Some assets may have limited liquidity, which can affect the ability to execute trades at desired prices.

Blockchain network congestion, wallet address errors, or smart contract failures can result in delayed, failed, or irreversible transactions.

4. Regulatory and Compliance Risk

The regulatory environment for cryptocurrency is evolving. Changes in laws or regulations may affect the availability of services, the value of assets, or your ability to access funds.

We may be required to freeze, restrict, or report accounts or transactions in response to legal, regulatory, or court orders.

5. Technology and Security Risk

While we implement security measures, no platform is immune to cyber attacks, software bugs, or operational failures. You are responsible for securing your own account credentials and devices.

Loss of private keys, phishing attacks, or unauthorized access to your account can result in permanent loss of funds.

6. Copy-Trading and Strategy Risk

Copy-trading involves replicating the trades of other investors. Past performance of a trader does not guarantee future results. Traders may change strategies, suspend activity, or experience losses.

By using copy-trading features, you acknowledge that you are making an independent decision to allocate capital and bear full responsibility for the outcome.

7. No Investment Advice
